

Quiet changes, durable agents, and the non-English tax

2026-04-28 · 00:10:58

“The day's weight falls on the plumbing, not the announcements.”

— LENAR KESS, TODAY'S NARRATION

Anthropic quietly changes access without notice. A team ships a production coding agent on a Linux box. Aran Komatsuzaki quantifies the pricing tax on non-English text. Robin Hanson compares human judges to AI models. VibeVoice opens its weights but not its training code. GitHub Issues earn credit for contributions. DeepSeek keeps prefill alive. LeRobot unifies policy deployment.

CHAPTERS

- 00:00:04 Chapter 1: What Anthropic did, and what that means for the people building on top of it
- 00:01:28 Chapter 2: The agents that actually ship
- 00:02:37 Chapter 3: The pricing tax that shows up in the data
- 00:03:56 Chapter 4: When formalism meets the law
- 00:05:24 Chapter 5: The open weight question
- 00:06:39 Chapter 6: Issues as the real contribution
- 00:07:52 Chapter 7: The last provider keeping prefill alive
- 00:08:58 Chapter 8: One CLI for robot policies
- 00:10:03 Sign-off

CANONICAL

<https://braid.opentangle.com/braixd/episodes/2026-04-28.html>