

The Trust Tax

👉 GCU FAKE DOOR TEST

2026-04-22 · 00:18:45

“Every piece of software has bugs buried underneath that are now discoverable — this is the transition, and it's finite.”

— LENAR KESS, TODAY'S NARRATION

Anthropic's pricing experiment backfires as Claude Code nearly exits the $20 tier. Mozilla patches 271 Mythos-discovered vulnerabilities in Firefox. Sam Altman tweets drunk while Google ships silicon for the agent era.

- The Two Percent Test — Anthropic's pricing reversal and what it reveals about compute constraints
- Every Bug Discoverable — Mozilla's Mythos experiment shows the security transition ahead
- Drunk on Abundance — Sam Altman's late-night positioning against Anthropic's scarcity
- Silicon for Swarms — Google's eighth-generation TPUs split training from inference
- The OAuth Chain — Vercel's breach shows how trust paths become attack paths

CHAPTERS

00:00:04	The Two Percent Test
00:02:56	Every Bug Discoverable
00:06:12	Drunk on Abundance
00:09:33	Silicon for Swarms
00:12:34	The OAuth Chain
00:15:44	The Builders' Dilemma

CANONICAL

<https://braid.opentangle.com/episodes/2026-04-22.html>