

Power Started Asking For Receipts

2026-06-18 / 00:25:25

“Powerful AI still needs permission: a regulator for the model, a grid study for the data center, a clinician for the diagnosis tool, and a safer road plan for the robotaxi.”

— Jonas Vale, today's narration

Watch on YouTube

Today on IMPULSE: Anthropic tries to turn the Mythos and Fable shutdown into a repair process, U.S. AI policy keeps moving through people and letters, FERC opens a faster path for large AI power loads, Arizona asks who pays for data centers, OpenAI and Boston Children's show a narrower medical-AI win, Europe eyes cloud power, and Waymo hits the construction-zone problem.

- WIRED on SK Telecom, Anthropic, and Mythos export controls
- New York Post on Anthropic's proposal to Commerce Secretary Howard Lutnick
- Axios on the Trump administration's shadow AI policy
- Axios on AI policy figures inside the White House and agencies
- NVIDIA on FERC's large-load interconnection action
- Axios on Arizona data centers, water, and power
- NBC News on OpenAI and Boston Children's rare-disease work
- OpenAI health model evaluation video
- Techmeme item on potential EU cloud regulation for AWS and Azure

- Techmeme item on Waymo's robotaxi recall

CHAPTERS

00:00:04 Anthropic Sent A Repair Offer

00:04:07 The Policy Is People In Rooms

00:08:20 The Grid Wants A Signature

00:12:44 Medicine Got A Narrower Claim

00:17:32 Cloud Power Met The EU Rulebook

00:20:37 Waymo Hit The Construction Zone

00:23:10 Today Was About Permission