

The Gate Moved To Identity

2026-06-21 / 00:22:34

“If a model is powerful enough that the provider wants to know exactly who is using it, access is no longer a simple retail product.”

— Jonas Vale, today’s narration

Watch on YouTube

Jonas Vale follows a Sunday where AI access became a credential question, public data contracts faced review, finance bought deeper into compute, policing moved AI into evidence work, and data centers forced local infrastructure bargains.

- Anthropic explained identity verification on Claude.
- TechCrunch examined the Anthropic export-control order.
- TNW reported on the UK review of the NHS Palantir contract.
- CoreWeave detailed Jane Street’s cloud and equity deal.
- The UK Home Office announced PoliceAI.
- The Guardian reported on Australia’s data-center boom.

CHAPTERS

00:00:04 The ID Check Reached Claude

00:03:37 The Export Order Still Has Missing Evidence

00:06:31 Palantir Has To Defend The Hospital Contract

00:09:56 Jane Street Bought Into Compute

00:13:03 PoliceAI Moves Into Evidence Work

00:16:18 The Data Center Became A Local Bargain

00:19:21 Nations And Niches Claimed Their Piece
