

Commerce Owes A Standard

2026-06-22 / 00:24:42

“If Commerce can stop one closed model because it can help with cyber operations, Congress wants to know why that logic does not apply to other systems still on the market.”

— Jonas Vale, today's narration

Watch on YouTube

Congress asks Commerce to explain frontier model export controls, Five Eyes moves AI cyber risk into the boardroom, SpaceX turns Colossus into a compute market, and policy starts asking who owns the upside.

- Congressional letter to Commerce on frontier model export controls
- The Guardian on Five Eyes AI cyber warning
- CNBC on SpaceX, Colossus, and Reflection AI
- CNBC on SpaceX bond sale and IPO financing
- NVIDIA Halos autonomous vehicle safety page
- NVIDIA on Los Alamos Mission, Vision, and Veritas systems
- NVIDIA on JUPITER exascale science projects
- Al Jazeera on China export controls against U.S. firms
- Forbes critique of Bernie Sanders's AI sovereign wealth fund proposal
- Techmeme summary of Financial Times reporting on JD.com automation
- Techmeme summary of The Atlantic on JD Vance's AI doctrine

CHAPTERS

00:00:04 Commerce Gets A Deadline

00:04:12 Five Eyes Moves Cyber Risk Upstairs

00:08:34 Colossus Becomes A Compute Market

00:12:57 Physical AI Gets Its Inspectors

00:18:27 Politics Finds The Invoice